Issue 24

Do you have a piece of Carnival Glass with a pattern that has more than one name? The powder jar pictured above has three names! See page 6.

Who loves Carnival Glass Animals? We Do! Learn more about them and the glass companies that made them on page 8.

There are many Carnival Glass patterns with stars as the motif. See if you can find this one (Many Stars) and eleven others in the Word Search on page 5.

A Santa Claus Carnival Christmas

By Loretta & John Nielsen

Editor's Note: This article was previously published in the December 2012 issue.

Did you know that there are many pieces of contemporary carnival glass that pictured Santa Claus and other Christmas themes?

The Santa to the right was made by Fenton. We do not know who made the two "Santa Bottles" shown below. The corks in the tops may indicate that they could have held some kind of Christmas drink.

Below are two Santa figures in sleighs, both were made by Fenton.

The blue crèche figures below were also made by Fenton. We bought them on several visits to their store in West Virginia. They make a beautiful display in our house at Christmas with our other Santa pieces.

Carnival Glass Star Patterns

By Sandy Sage

The carnival glass patterns in this word search all have a star motif. Search for the words in the list at the bottom of the page. Look for the answer on another page.

The ice blue carnival glass cup plate with the star motif on the left was made by Millville Art Glass of Millville, New Jersey. The lettering on the plate reads "250th Anniversary, 1741 - 1991, Bethlehem, PA." It is 3.5 inches in diameter.

Nola Powder Jars

By Ellen Richardson

Continuing our series on powder jars made in Europe is another wonderful pattern by the Czech glass company Josef Inwald. Here we have a pattern called Nola, originally known as Pompei. Not an intricate pattern but very distinctive none the less. It consists of a crisscross twig-like design cut into the surface of the glass, hence the third name this pattern has been called – Panelled Twigs.

The pattern is even more eye catching on the square lid as it is cut in a diamond shape giving it more detail. Inwald pieces are know for their beautiful gold, blue and rose iridescence.

The dresser set consists of a tumble up, colognes, perfumes, ring tree, pin tray and of course powder jars. Two different sizes of the powder jar are shown. The smaller jar is missing the lid.

Dimensions of the large jar are:

Height (2 1/2 inches), Height with lid (3 1/8 inches), Base diameter (2 inches), Top diameter (2 5/8 inches).

Dimensions of the small jar are:

Height (2 inches), Base diameter (1 3/4 inches), Top diameter (2 inches).

If you ever get the chance to see or purchase any of the perfumes in this pattern, the iridescence will stun you. As I may have already said I can never get enough of Carnival glass made by Josef Inwald!

Circle Puzzle

By Loretta & John Nielsen

Starting at the top square, count three boxes clockwise and enter the letter you come to on the line below (we have done this one for you). Count around clockwise three more boxes and enter that letter below. Continue clockwise three boxes at a time until you fill the dashed line. You use each letter only once. You should have the name of the pictured carnival glass pattern (two words).

We All Love Animals

By Mitchell Stewart

When you are out shopping for carnival glass have you noticed there are sometimes small iridized glass animals for sale? Lots of glass companies made small items - Dogs, Cats, Bears, Penguins, Squirrels, Pigs and so on.

And, they are not always expensive. You can have a great collection of small animals. They don't take up a lot of room and you don't have to feed them...lol.

Boyd Art Glass of Cambridge, Ohio, which recently closed, made a lot of Carnival Glass animals, more than any other manufacturer. The following is a list of Boyd's animals:

- |   |   |   |

Patrick Bear

Artie the Penguin

Willie the Mouse

Many other glass companies also made Carnival Glass animals...you will find some if you look.

Watch for Carnival Glass animals made by Fenton and Mosser in a future issue!

This Squirrel is by L.E. Smith Glass.

This Terrier is by Imperial Glass.
